SHAKESPEARE'S HEROINES VISIT CHICAGO

Present Day "Doubles" of Cleopatra and Viola as They Appeared at Woman's Club Revue.

SHAKESPEARE'S HEROINES MEET MODERN SISTERS

Cleopatra Is Favorite Among Women at Club Revue.

"Cleopatra held me to the very heart of loss." —From Antony and Cleopatra.

"Only five."

After Capt. Rose left Newport he was intent on getting home before his last diminishing supply of oil and food was gone, but he tarried long enough to see his little whilst of British ships. I asked him how many ships he had sent out on this voyage.

"Only five," the captain said with a quirk of the air. "But," he added quickly, "put down, please, that I don't have a single hair on the head of man, woman, or child on a single one of these boats I destroyed, nor did I ever see a single soul on the U-53. I saved a lone little lifeboat full of survivors to Nanuk Light, and at other times we had to leave lifeboats to steamer lanes where people could be picked up."

"Pirates" and U-boats.

Then came Rosalind and her pretty mate, the farmerette (Mrs. Laura Lee Randall), telling of the married life of Orlando, who "did not help her at all with the butter and egg business she had started."

Then the orchestra played some ornate wacky music, the curtains were drawn slowly back again, and the greatest charmer of them all, Cleopatra, the Nile woman, stood revealed in gaunt black over realistic pink tights. Her lips were very red. Her hair was like the raven's wing, and there were "priceless pearls" about her brow and hanging in long strands over her bosom—if it could be called that.

The draft regards war as an abhorrent method of settling disputes. Therefore it plans that armaments shall be reduced to domestic requirements, with no armed ships except for the league's navy, and no armament despite complete protection for each country. All straits and canals are to be internationalized.

Regarding colonial questions it renews the principle of international administration for tropical colonies.

Program Noncommittal.

There was a rustling of programs and women whispered "Who is she?"

The program told nothing. It merely said, "It is the first meeting of the German women's peace delegation."

Everybody knew it wasn't Mrs. Van Vlissingen. People wondered, "Who is she?"

One was named De Mellow.

Two were named on the American destroyer Jacob Jones, which sunk in December in the Atlantic off the Folly Islands. When the American ship was sinking I saw two men struggling in the water. I ran to them and helped them up. They were Murphy and De Mellow. Almost frozen, we took them aboard and gave them dry clothes to wear.

"I could not take on any more people from the water," said Capt. Rose.

"I do not want all the Murphys," said the captain, "just the one who was going to be a man."

GLASS WARNS OF POSSIBLE SLUMP ON VICTORY LOAN

Chicago's Total Goes to $30,000,000 on the Fourth Day.

Secretary Glass yesterday warned Chicago of an estimated subscription of $30,000,000, and the country against overconfidence in their efforts to put over the Victory loan. At the end of half a day in Chicago, spent between speeches in Indianapolis and Omaha, he pointed out the dangers of too much confidence.

"Everyone should realize that it is his duty to subscribe to the loan regardless of whatever anyone else may, or may not, do," he said. "Widespread belief, which I believe was founded, that the issue will be over-subscribed should not be seized on as an excuse for the individual neglecting his duty."

Traveling to the west to bring Victory loan inspiration, he himself received inspiration, the secretary of the treasury declared. "I came out from Washington to make an appeal, but everywhere I have gone so far I have witnessed the high triumph of American patriotism," he explained. "Everywhere the spirit has been very fine and in some places positively surprising."

Plain in Busy Afternoon.

Accompanied by his daughter, Miss Mary Archer Glass ("and be very sure you call me 'Archer' if you use my name," she cautioned a reporter), the commander in chief of the loan workers arrived in Chicago shortly after noon and left at 7:10 p.m. over the Northwestern for Omaha, where he is to speak tonight. He spent the afternoon in a tour of the parks and boulevards, a visit to the Chinese clearing house, and a walk in the numerous garment workers, and an inspection of Victory park and the Victory forum.

With an estimated sum of $30,000,000 in subscriptions at the close of business yesterday clearing house figures showing an aggregate of $21,163,369 were made public. This figure does not include yesterday's late receipts, which will have not been secured by the payment of at least 10 per cent. It is made up of about 35,000 subscriptions.

Ward workers' activities sputtered and at the close of business a total of 12,393,100 from 17,372 subscribers was shown. The Twenty-first ward—the gold coast—reported the greatest number of subscriptions, 3,832, and the second largest, $866,000.

The Twentieth ward showed the greatest percentage of its quota secured, with 19 subscribers and $135,900 to its credit. The Twenty-first ward has secured but 16 per cent of its $5,000,000 quota.

Reports by Divisions.

The trades division turned in $2,571,155 for the day, with a mark of $265,000 for the Peabody Coal company.

Businessmen who have turned in a total of $866,000 to date, with $12,000 from the Fair store and $25,250 from Mandel Bros.

Foreign language division workers reports total $197,250 up to last night, with the Peabody—$68,450 from 332 subscribers—head, and the Germans—$77,000 from 190 subscribers—second.

The Czech-Slavs stood second in the number of communities reaching their quota, having 115.

The first spirited auction of the campaign is expected to occur tonight at the Auditorium, when forty picked financiers will bid in Victory note subscriptions for a wing from the first German airplane brought down by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, victor in twenty-six battles. A big German cross, the mark of the German flier, is painted on the trophy.

The financiers—bankers and industrial leaders—are to meet the ace of aces at a luncheon at the Union League club today.

Plan Elaborate Program.

Providing the weather man allows the program at Victory forum today had to take off the Sam Brown belt he never had any right to wear and was lodged in jail charged with embezzlement.

Sergt. Newton until his arrest was secretary of the Tank Corps reserve, a national organization of tank corps men which has more than 1,700 members in Chicago. Also he was associate editor of Treat 'Em Rough, the Chicago army magazine. Now he is the East Chicago army guardhouse.

The suspect's speculations are said to total about $1,000. Most of this was in checks made payable to the organization that he is alleged to have diverted into his own bank account in the Lake County Trust and Savings bank of Hammond, Ind. When these were sent to him he started to start on other things, it was stated.

A number of the sergeant's personal checks disclosed the wine parties he is alleged to have conducted for soldiers of the tank corps who found their way to the headquarters of the organization in the Fort Dearborn hotel. Some of them also were for the wife of Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker.

Some of the checks which Sergt. Newton has been charged with embezzling are $100 from Sears, Roebuck & Co., $100 from the Hubbard Steel company, $50 from the Lasker Iron company.

He was to be illuminated at 10, and followed by the usual fireworks display.

Success is not accidental. It is based upon certain fundamental and original ideas regarding the practical application of art to business. There are many artists who make good pictures.

But good pictures are not enough. Art is a language. It can be made to say anything. Frey makes it talk business.

HARRISON GLAD HE'S BACK HOME AFTER 6 MONTHS

Five Time Mayor Dodges
Details of Political Discussion.

"Well, you fellows made a fine mess of it, didn't you?"

That was as far as Capt. Carter H. Harrison cared to go for the present in his comment on the recent city election.

"I will say one thing," he added, "and that is you ought to compliment Mike Faherty on the good work he is doing in the widening of Michigan avenue. That's a corking good job. By jocks, the old avenue looked mighty good. I always did think a lot of Chicago. But I like the town better today than ever before."

The five-time mayor had got out of the service to wear at Toul in service for the Red Cross, had got into a nifty blue suit, and leaned back in the big comfy rocker at the Paikway hotel.

Warms Against Politics.

"Now, fire away," he said, "But let me warn you at the outset—not a word about politics."

He said he would have to read up before offering his advice to Chicago residents and visitors.

"I think," he said, "I saw a home paper—The Tribune—just three times from the day I landed in Toul last October until I left there for home. We had the Paris edition of The Tribune regularly and distributed thousands of copies among the wounded and sick in the twelve hospitals under our supervision."

"I saw Parks Brown occasionally and that helped to drive away the homesickness. And down in Paris the other day Floyd Gibbons and I ran that old blunderbuss he calls a Chicago Tribune automobile all over the city trying to get fixed for the same boat. But it seems I have beaten him."

PUSH WELCOME PLANS AS 149TH NEARS NEW YORK

"Reilly's Bucks" to Get a Big Reception Here in Near Future.

With "Reilly's Bucks" on the home sea lane less than a day out of New York harbor, Chicago home folks of the famous Rainbow artillery regiment last night cleared away final details for the roaring reception that will strike the city when the gunner heroes arrive here—presumably the last of next week.

All the pent up enthusiasm for the regiment stored during nearly two years will be displayed on the day when veterans of some of the hardest fighting of the world war return at the Illinois Central station, and begin their march in Michigan avenue.

Representatives in New York. Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Wolf, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parmelee, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goodnow, representing the One Hundred and Forty-ninth Field Artillery War Relief association, will attend to homecoming details in New York for their organization.

"There will be neither time nor opportunity for a demonstration of any size on the boys' hand," said Lieut. Col. Noble E. Judah, former second in command of the regiment, last night. "Troops are carried through the disembarkation process as swiftly as possible and everything is strictly military until they are safely in camp and ready to go home. We are saving all our Chicago homecoming energy for the day they set foot on loop pavements."

Program Arranged.

Chicago's welcoming committee, which is coordinating the plans of regimental and battery auxiliaries, has a definite homecoming program mapped out.

"We have made certain that Col. Reilly's regiment will be sent home from their debarkation camp over the Michigan Central and will detrail here at the Twelfth street station," announced Col. W. N. Pelouze, chairman of the committee. "After the first orientation at the station where most of Chicago probably will be banked, the regiment will march to the Coliseum.

"We have arranged to have the gallery plotted off and marked with each battery. For instance relatives of men in B battery will take their place in their section of the gallery and when the regiment falls in B battery B boys can go direct to that section.

"About noon the regiment will be formed again for its parade through the loop and will swing into Michigan avenue behind its famous band. The War Relief association has arranged for veterans to stand accomodately 7,000 persons just south of the Victory way. The Fathers and Mothers' association will erect a like stand just south of Jackson boulevard, and the official reviewing stand will be midway between the two.

"Artillerymen will march through the loop and will march along. The regiment is too fine to allow its military showing to be lessened by civilian participation. After parading the boys will halt at the Congress hotel for dinner and entertainment. They will entrain for Camp Grant about 4 p.m.

S. A. Dickson of the 1st Field Artillery Veteran corps issued a call last night to the 3,000 or more veterans of the regiment to assemble on homecom-

FOREIGN MINISTER OF JAPAN DENIES GERMAN PARLEY

TOKIO, April 24.—There is no indication to show that any Japanese or the name of Oda, mentioned in the German telegram of a similar name, stayed at Stockholm either in 1918 or 1917. In any case, Japan indignantly denies the charge that she has ever contemplated the conclusion of any treaty or understanding with the Germans in breach of her plighted faith. It seems like a small thing to cause an explosion, but it furnished an insight into the psychology of the troops. They are wondering whether the folks at home realize where they have been and why they went and, most of all, they're wondering whether Mary is the same old Mary she was in 1917.

WELCOME AT HOBOKEN.

New York, April 24.—[Special.]—"Reilly's Bucks" are nearing home. The giant transport Leviathan, with fifty-four officers and 4,441 men of Chicago's 149th field artillery regiment on board, is racing towards the port and will dock at Hoboken at 6 o'clock tomorrow evening.

The arrival of the Leviathan, always a spectacular sight, will be attended this time by unusual ceremonies.

Aboard are numerous units of the Rainbow division, in addition to Reilly's men, and various state societies and committees are planning to meet the vessel with tugboats as it passes the Statue of Liberty.

The Illinois delegation will be headed by women who have been active in opening and maintaining the Illinois headquarters here for returning troops.

They are: Mrs. Cora Crews, Mrs. Shirley McCormick, Mrs. Watson Brown, Mrs. Ralph Clegg, Mrs. Marion B. Starring, Mrs. Howard Spaulding, and Miss Sadie American.

Falls Downstairs While Saying Good-bye; May Die

William Lemon, 18, of 4915 Clifton avenue, an "L" station guard, was probably fatally hurt last night when he fell downstairs at 1958 Bissell street, where he had been visiting friends. He was walking backward while saying good-bye.

A message was received last night from "Chicago mothers, sisters, and sweethearts" the boys of the "L" station guard, and wrinkled from the bulletin board like a harbor beacon as the happy Chicago boys crowded about it to read.

Tribute to Those Left Behind.

Col. Reilly added the following message to relatives of the dead of the regiment in the general orders of the day.

"At the moment of the arrival in the United States, after an absence of more than a year and a half, and when grateful for our safe return to our own country, the commanding officer, officers, and enlisted men of this regiment extend their most heartfelt sympathy to the relatives of the dead.

"These men, whether they died in battle, by accident, or in hospital from wounds or disease, willingly sacrificed themselves for their duty and the cause in which they believed.

The regiment hopes that the pride and admiration felt by it for this sacrifice may console the relatives of these men for their absence from its ranks in this hour of triumph."

BRING US HOME, AANK MESSAGE FROM ARCHANGEL

Chicago Nurse Reaches London with Story of Mutiny.

BY ARTHUR E. MANN.
[By Special Cable.]
LONDON, April 24.—The American
of the North Russian expedition of force said: "Tell the folks at home we're not trouble." This is the message which Miss Alma Foester, American Red Cross nurse, left East Circle avenue, Chicago, yesterday bound among the frigid waters of the Archangel and Mur-man front.

Just From Archangel.
Miss Foester has just arrived in London after a nineteen days' trip from Archangel. There she was one of the only two American Red Cross nurses with the North Russian expedition—the other was Miss Gosling of New York. They were in charge of the Red Cross hospital there since their arrival last September.

Now Miss Foester is on her way home, having been recalled by the Red Cross headquarters at Washington. Seven months of the hardest kind of work have made it although the American authorities have repeatedly asked for and renounced a promise of relief and reinforcement from the Red Cross, the British and military authorities at Archangel closed to allow any more women to travel on account of the dangerous situation.

Book Summer Return.
"The American soldiers in North Russia did not know whether to believe or not to be brought home this summer," Miss Foester said. "They are read in bulletins and in a newspaper published at Archangel for them that they will be recalled, but they do not feel safe in their knowledge."

"It was this uncertainty and not boredom which led to the mutiny of the Michigan boys of Company I of the 55th infantry of the 55th division.
The men had been back from the front for a rest and when orders came to return to the firing line they longed for a rest combined with their inability to believe they should not fight at an enemy against whom they had not been declared got the better of their sense of discipline. They refused to go. Col. Stewart of their regiment gave them a long talk and finally they agreed to return to the front. I am not sure if they suffered the fate which is provided for such cases, but they will not be leniently if it happens and it may happen again unless we are not only sent home this summer but made to believe that they are safe."

Propaganda of Bolsheviks.
While declining to believe that the men of Company I and also those of other units who had previously indicated in some insubordination were induced by Bolshevik propaganda, Miss Foester admitted that the propaganda was being well done.

The Bolsheviks are printing a newspaper in good English. Miss Foester said, "which they throw into the American lines." I believe some of their propaganda stuff has been in America."

Miss Foester then described the most dramatic episode in the bolshvist campaign to influence American voters.

Group of Bolsheviks.
One day a group of former appeared on a little bridge in the area separating the two lines.
"Why do you fight us?" the bolshvists cried appealingly in perfect English. "We like you. We like America. But you have no right to be in our country. Go home. If you do not we will push you into the sea."

IT IS NOT OUR FIGHT.

The letter from Robert H. Lanyon, published in the Voice of the People column, is one of a type of which we receive many, but certainly too many. That is, unless Mr. Lanyon is an Italian citizen.

Italy wants Flume. She wants it for reasons sentimental, military and commercial. The South Slavs want Flume. They want it for reasons sentimental, military and commercial. For these reasons they are quarreling over it. Very likely they will fight over it.

It is their quarrel, not our quarrel. It is not an American quarrel. It is not a quarrel in which The Tribune is interested. It is not a quarrel in which Mr. Lanyon should be interested, if Mr. Lanyon is an American citizen. It is not a quarrel in which Mr. Wilson would have taken a strong stand if he were acting for America instead of what he deems the interests of humanity. This quarrel may be settled by compromise. It may be settled by flipping a coin. More likely it will be settled by force of arms. Force of whose arms? Italian and Jugo-Slavs' arms? French and English arms? or American arms?

Who will suggest that the expedition which is to be withdrawn from an Archangel winter, due to the pressure of public sentiment, be sent to summer at Flume, either to keep the Jugo-Slavs out or to put the Italians out?

If any one suggests it, it will be one who did all his fighting in the recent war with his tongue; who never missed a meal from a plate laid on a linen table cloth or slept a night out of his double bed.

The Italians and the Jugo-Slavs are quarreling over Flume. American citizens of Italian and Jugo-Slav birth are also quarreling over Flume. Some of them, we are sorry to say, are using the political power of their American citizenship to further the fatherland. They should not be encouraged in it by American citizens. American soldiers do not want to fight to make Flume Italian or Jugo-Slav and Americans at home should not embrace a foreign quarrel, even if they feel safe that any resulting war will not endanger them personally.

OUR HOME-COMING HEROES.

The hearts of Chicagoans will begin beating near the danger point from this time forth. The old militia regiments are arriving. We begin to collect bread for a hall to the 149th field artillery, now busting off the ships and home again.

Once more the Chicagoans can march as the old 1st artillery—for so they will be remembered. And so will the other Chicago regiments be remembered, as the 1st, 2d, 7th, and 8th infantry and the 1st engineers, now the 108th engineers. Of the 149th it almost may be said by our citizens: Of Chicagoans they were first in war, first in peace, and at least for the time being first in the hearts of their countrymen.

We have suggested before that Chicago would thrill at the sight of all those who were first in peace, war, and in the hearts of their townsmen—that is to say, the 1st, 2d, 7th, and 8th infantry, the 1st artillery, the 1st cavalry, and the 1st engineers—when Chicago would be thrilled by the sight of those units marching in Michigan boulevard in broken formation—blank spaces to mark the missing men.

We urge Chicago to be ready for the return of the home regiments. For, with all glory and respect to those who went to war with other units, there must remain a spot peculiarly soft in the Chicago heart for the Chicago regiments which were ready long before the war was.

MEXICO AND THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

News from Mexico says that our serpentine neighbor has repudiated, abrogated, annulled or otherwise inflicted itself upon the Monroe doctrine, and in evidence of its protest, nullification, abrogation or whatever it is, has ordered its diplomatic representatives to quit Paris and to go to Spain, there awaiting further orders.

Mexico, being a tiny bit Spanish, may have a dislike for the duenna, and wish to be a prospect for approaches. Being a large part blustering and worthless it may wish to assume a large man attitude. It may wish to invite the invader in order to kick the invader into the sea. The United States is not interested in what Mexico desires in the way of excitement or pleasure or adventure.

What Mexico asserts as regards the Monroe doctrine is entirely negligible. We want to know the purposes of the fox and do not care what the opinion may be in the hen coop.

If Europe and Asia accept the Monroe doctrine, Mexico may do anything it cares to with regard to it. So long as Europe and Asia remain out of Mexico our serpentine neighbor may annul the doctrine to its heart's content.

THE FLAVOR OF OLD HOMES.

There is noticeable in current building activities of Chicago a disposition to remodel and modernize the houses of a generation ago and to find in them the flavor of home once so characteristic.

We are anxious to see this movement widely carried out. While we are eager to see Chicago grow and forever press the boundaries outwards there is much to be said for the houses constructed in years gone, houses that were built with trustworthy materials, built to withstand the ravages of time and to shelter coming generations.

It was regrettable that some of the older families thought wise to desert these comfortable old homes, sparing of fine traditions; but now it becomes a matter for congratulation in that there is a return to them, to restore them, and to give them back the distinction they once enjoyed.

As Chicago comes more and more into the stream of age and fixed habit it follows that homes will not be continually pushed away to make room for business. This was necessary in the loop by reason of the tremendous growth of industry. But industry is becoming centralized and the residence districts becoming fixed. The old homes on all sides of the river need no longer fear the encroachment of trade in the volume of post-fire days.

It seems reasonable to assume that when Chicago homes are given new life—the old home, that is to say—it will be time for expansion; and, indeed, expansion need not wait, but care for those who are now about to build for the future. But it will be a mighty asset of stability and tradition if the old houses are all remodeled and thrown open to support the influences that gave Chicago character in the early days.

BURLESON, POLITICS, AND POLITICAL CENSORSHIP.

The New York World-Burleson feuds have two aspects which must not be confused, nor should one cause the other to be lost sight of.

The World attack on Burleson represents a revolt of the northeastern Democracy against the organization which has dominated the party ever since Woodrow Wilson came into power. During all this time the government has been by and for the southern states. The southern states have supplied not only the president and practically all of his cabinet but all the congressional leaders who in turn have shaped all legislation to benefit their section of the country at the expense of the north. The northeastern Democratic congressmen, like those from our own neighborhood, have been content to take such patronage and perquisites as were tossed to them and to say "yes, yes," to every act and enactment of their dominators.

The results of Democratic legislation and administration have not been successful, as was amply demonstrated at the last election, so now the northern Democrats are endeavoring to assert themselves in their party in the hope of forestalling a Republican landslide two years hence.

Postmaster Burleson, as the head and front door of the Post Office, is a man with many causes for unpopularity, especially in the east, was the natural butt of the attack of the northeastern Democrats. He, like any other politician of his stripe under attack, took the most usual weapon of political warfare and accused his enemies of dishonest motives. It may be settled by flipping a coin. More likely it will be settled by force of arms. Force of whose arms? Italian and Jugo-Slavs' arms? French and English arms? or American arms?

Who will suggest that the expedition which is to be withdrawn from an Archangel winter, due to the pressure of public sentiment, be sent to summer at Flume, either to keep the Jugo-Slavs out or to put the Italians out?

If any one suggests it, it will be one who did all his fighting in the recent war with his tongue; who never missed a meal from a plate laid on a linen table cloth or slept a night out of his double bed.

The Italians and the Jugo-Slavs are quarreling over Flume. American citizens of Italian and Jugo-Slav birth are also quarreling over Flume. Some of them, we are sorry to say, are using the political power of their American citizenship to further the fatherland. They should not be encouraged in it by American citizens. American soldiers do not want to fight to make Flume Italian or Jugo-Slav and Americans at home should not embrace a foreign quarrel, even if they feel safe that any resulting war will not endanger them personally.

Once more the Chicagoans can march as the old 1st artillery—for so they will be remembered. And so will the other Chicago regiments be remembered, as the 1st, 2d, 7th, and 8th infantry and the 1st engineers, now the 108th engineers. Of the 149th it almost may be said by our citizens: Of Chicagoans they were first in war, first in peace, and at least for the time being first in the hearts of their countrymen.

We have suggested before that Chicago would thrill at the sight of all those who were first in peace, war, and in the hearts of their townsmen—that is to say, the 1st, 2d, 7th, and 8th infantry, the 1st artillery, the 1st cavalry, and the 1st engineers—when Chicago would be thrilled by the sight of those units marching in Michigan boulevard in broken formation—blank spaces to mark the missing men.

We urge Chicago to be ready for the return of the home regiments. For, with all glory and respect to those who went to war with other units, there must remain a spot peculiarly soft in the Chicago heart for the Chicago regiments which were ready long before the war was.

WHAT OF THE WHEEL TAX FUND?

Some days ago a diligent journalist disclosed the information that there are $60,000—or was it $60,000,000—holes in the pavements of Chicago. More recently still there was the announcement that while some 112,000 owners of automobiles in Chicago have paid wheel taxes amounting to $521,520, but little has been done in the way of repairing the streets. It is one which cannot be passed over or condoned. There can no longer be a question of throwing Mr. Burleson overboard to conciliate the northeastern Democrats or other politicians. He must be called to account by the constitutional authority, the house of representatives.

TWELFTH STREET PROJECT STUCK IN DEEP TANGLE

Money Is Available, but Construction Is Far Away.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

For upwards of seven years there has been an agreement between the sanitary district and the city government to build a new Twelfth street bridge. During a large part of that time the necessary money has been available. It is now.

Plans have been made for the bridges. Bids have been taken on them and rejected. Now new plans have been made by the city. The district trustees have refused to date to approve of the plans, so the old bridge stands. No work is expected soon on the new.

The result is that the Twelfth street improvement is of little service. The riverfront improvement will be between State street and Michigan avenue. It has been widened between Canal street and Ashland avenue. But between Canal and State streets is a long viaduct, in the middle of which is the bridge. The Union station railroads are obliged to reconstruct and widen the west end of the viaduct. The east end of the old bridge is to be closed and other roads made. The money for this work was made available by the approval of a bond issue at the last election. Therefore the bridge is the stumbling block to the completion of this beneficial improvement.

Seven Years of Talk.

The city and the district started discussing this matter May 24, 1912. About that time the district agreed to pay half of the cost of a new bridge. Its purpose was to remove the center pier structure and thereby promote navigation. The district had much talk about the bridge. That was the reason for the agreement. It was estimated then that the bridge would cost about $500,000.

First it was decided to erect a double leaf bascule bridge, but that required more land than the city owned for its east abutment. The Rock Island road, which owned the property, objected to the proposed bridge. The trustees wanted assurances that the river will be straightened within a reasonable time.

Everybody approved of it. Now it appears that some of them did so with their fingers crossed. The plan was only approved by the trustees. It might have been rejected in a court of law if presented to a court in the special assessment case. Drainage trustees question the accuracy of that representation because they point out that the plans were made at a cost of about $35,000 in November, 1914, and the district had half of the money. On Jan. 10, 1917, the city received bids for the building of the bridge. The lowest bidder asked $1,160,251. Because of the war it was then given out that the bids would be rejected.

bridge plan were only made to prove a special assessment case, it seems that bids on the plan were asked.

Now the city has prepared a plan for a one leaf bascule bridge, with a base on the west side of the river.

When the river is straightened they proposed to turn this leaf around and make it the east leaf, so that the leaf will be on the new river channel.

It is all very nice to this point, but the city proposes to reduce the span over the present channel from 200 to 140 feet. To that the trustees object. A by-pass has been suggested, but that does not satisfy the trustees, because they point out that the river has a sharp bend for navigators at Twelfth street.

The trustees point out that they have spent $12,000,000 to widen the river to 200 feet, and that the district is continually fought at Washington because ship owners think the district's plan injures navigation. So they want to promote navigation.

Other Complications.

To complicate the matter the Association of Commerce, the Chicago Plan Commission, Chicago City club, and other organizations approved of the bridge plan on which bids were received.

Some of the organizations have endorsed a policy of a 200 foot channel. But now they approve of a 140 foot single leaf bascule bridge. This is apparently on the theory that it is ten times more economical. The trustees want assurances that the river will be straightened within a reasonable time.

Still another angle is the order of the government to remove the bridge. If it is removed then navigation and sanitation facilities will be set aside. The district trustees will not have official interest in the matter. They started out on the theory that they would spend $250,000, and now they are asked for $700,000.

There the bridge matter stands and the Twelfth street improvement waits.

The drainage trustees will hold a public hearing next Monday at the office of the Skokie drainage district.

Bids were opened yesterday on the Desplaines river activated sludge plant.

It will cost over $600,000 and be located in the neighborhood of the Speedway park.

NEW HOSPITAL IN RAVENSWOOD TO START IN MONTH

Within the next month actual work will be begun on the addition to the Ravenswood hospital, North Winchester and Wilson avenues. The architectural plans are completed and the building contract pretty closed.

The new hospital will have some new features. The predominant idea is to decrease the size of the floors and take care of the resultant loss of space in the addition of stories, making every floor a complete unit. Every door will be closed by a double set of doors to keep out noise and operating room odors.

The entire building plan carries out this idea. The hard share of the floors and blinding white walls will be toned down. The lighting fixtures will soften the illumination. The exposure will be to the south, facing Winchester avenue.

Aeroplanes Flying Over Cities

— the battleplanes that rendered such valiant service over the fighting lines in Europe—the increasingly marvelous achievements of these adventurers of the sky—have been made possible by aluminum.

Aeroplane motors are made of aluminum. Motor hoods are made of aluminum. Radiator casings and various other fittings are made of aluminum. In fact, the entire bodies of some aeroplanes are made of aluminum.

Aluminum combines to a remarkable degree the essential elements of Lightness, Strength and Durability.

Character of workmanship no less than metal determines the success and length of service of every aeroplane.

The same skill and care used in the construction of aeroplanes are used in making

BURLESON CASE WAITS WILSON'S DECISION SOON

Democrats Join Republicans in Plans for Disciplining Mail Chief.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
Washington, D. C., April 24.—[Special.]—The row in the Democratic party over the retention of Postmaster General Burleson in the cabinet is assuming such proportions that President Wilson soon will be compelled to take the matter in hand.

Mr. Burleson shall go on duty will be decided by the president when he returns to Washington, if not earlier. In anticipation of developments the postmaster general has called the president a lengthy defense, which includes his charges that disgruntled periodical publishers are behind the mail.

It is anticipated today that there will be initiated an investigation of Burleson's administration of the postal, wire, and cable services as soon as the new congress meets. Democratic members are no less in favor of such investigation than are the Republicans, who will be in control.

Burleson Assails Postal Wire.
The postmaster general issued more statements today in reply to his critics. In one he assailed the Postal Telegraph company as "a bunch of scoundrels."

There are over 10,000 telephone and telegraph companies in the United States furnishing service to the public. The postmaster general has had a controversy or even an unpleasant experience with only one—the Postal Telegraph and Cable company.

The Postal Telegraph company is not the only one far as it is concerned whose sworn statements before the Interstate commerce commission as to receipts, disbursements, value of property, and depreciation reserves are in conflict with their sworn statements to the postmaster general.

In another statement Mr. Burleson denied that he had applied the gag rule to telegraph employees and suppressed the Postal magazine.

Publisher Chief's Reply.
New York, April 24.—Replying in a statement tonight to the charge of Postmaster General Burleson that he is the victim of "an organized propaganda," Charles Johnson Post, director of the publishers' advisory board, declared that he was not the publishers of the paper who were responsible but the postmaster general himself.

He asserted that demoralization of the postal service was a fact which every business man and American home was able to judge out of their own experience.

The amazing official statement by

COL. LEWIS HOME: ASSIGNED TO FORT SHERIDAN

Col. Dean D. Lewis, who has just returned from France after more than a year's service, has been assigned to special nerve treatment work at Fort Sheridan. He was director of base hospital No. 13 at Limoges, France, for ten months. During the heavy fighting he was in charge of evacuation hospital No. 5. Col. Lewis was one of the leading surgeons of the "footpads" engaged in the sale of stock in fake companies. The court pronounced the district attorney to place in charge of the bureau a man familiar with the ways of criminals.

"It has been made clear to me," said Justice Landis, "that not thousands but millions of dollars have been taken from people by these salesmen of worthless stocks."

Following the court's order warrants were issued for Jacob W. Mettler, John D. Cameron, and Dolph S. Fletcher, supposed to be in Washington, D. C., charging conspiracy to use the mail to defraud.

Will Prosecute Trio.

The criminal turn in the bankruptcy proceedings availed it to turn to the national capital, where attorneys for the government, the receiver and the stockholders will take witnesses, if necessary, to push the case against the trio. Mettler and Cameron are the alleged promoters of the defunct $40,000,000 corporation. Fletcher is charged with being a dummy character who joined with them in their enterprise.

Mettler, former president, and Cameron, general manager, ignored the summons to attend the hearings before the trial to defraud.

Mr. Burleson's organized propaganda is the expression of sentiment of hundreds and hundreds of responsible business organizations with their many thousands of business members: chambers of commerce, educational institutions, labor organizations, religious organizations, and cultural organizations, who have fully condemned the various inefficient political methods and principles which he champions."

Demands Arrest of Black Diamond Promoters.

A dam is to be erected to stem the flow of worthless stock which has carried away the possessions of thousands of working people in and around Chicago.

Federal Judge Landis, ordering the arrest of three Black Diamond Oil company heads, yesterday instructed the United States District Attorney to issue a warrant on the department for the criminal prosecution of hundreds of "footpads" engaged in the sale of stock in fake companies. The court abolished the district attorney to place in charge of the bureau a man familiar with the ways of criminals.

"It has been made clear to me," said Justice Landis, "that not thousands but millions of dollars have been taken from people by these salesmen of worthless stocks."

Following the court's order warrants were issued for Jacob W. Mettler, John D. Cameron, and Dolph S. Fletcher, supposed to be in Washington, D. C., charging conspiracy to use the mail to defraud.

Will Prosecute Trio.

The criminal turn in the bankruptcy proceedings availed it to turn to the national capital, where attorneys for the government, the receiver and the stockholders will take witnesses, if necessary, to push the case against the trio. Mettler and Cameron are the alleged promoters of the defunct $40,000,000 corporation. Fletcher is charged with being a dummy character who joined with them in their enterprise.

Mettler, former president, and Cameron, general manager, ignored the summons to attend the hearings before the trial to defraud.

Mr. Burleson's organized propaganda is the expression of sentiment of hundreds and hundreds of responsible business organizations with their many thousands of business members: chambers of commerce, educational institutions, labor organizations, religious organizations, and cultural organizations, who have fully condemned the various inefficient political methods and principles which he champions."

CARSON PIRIE SCOTT AND COMPANY

Judge Landis, but the court made it plain other officials who have testified are not immune from prosecution. He remarked that Arthur C. McLaughlin, treasurer, and Col. E. Lot, De Kalb, Ill., one of Cameron's advisors, may be counted as closely allied with the promoters.

Hope for Stockholders.

Justin K. Orvis and B. F. March, attorneys for Paul E. Leah of Washington, D. C., the receiver, yesterday issued a statement to stockholders who paid cash for stock, that there is hope of a substantial reimbursement, with the discovery of the company's 550 acres of land in the oil fields of Oklahoma and Texas, and restitution of profits by stock salesmen.

The $3,000 worth of white diamonds traded for stock by a "Mrs. Douglas" were referred to by Miss Elizabeth Doyle, who returned stock given her by Cameron. Judge Landis ordered Miss Doyle to ascertain the address of Mrs. Douglas.

Mrs. Olive A. Burgess, wife of Elmer Burgess, employed by the company as a field promoter, testified she had received $30,000 of the company's stock.

CZECHS CHEER AS JUDSON PUTS U.S. ABOVE ALL

Americanism Rouses Wild Enthusiasm at Banquet.

Loyalty to the United States overshadowed all other sentiments uttered at the night at the banquet given to President Harry Pratt Judson of Chicago university by the Bohemian National alliance and the Slovak league in the Hotel La Salle.

From more than a dozen speakers, representing the and the citizens of the Czech-Slovakian peoples, and from men of French, Jugos-Slavic and Belgian extraction, the same sentiment was uttered under outbursts of enthusiasm.

America before every other nation in the world because of the ideals for which America stands, was cheered over and over again.

Judson Inspires Cheers.

President Judson, at almost the midnight hour, finally arose and was cheered for some minutes. Then he resumed the call to Americanism, to one people, one language—the English language—and one common brotherhood.

He was cheered for his support of the League of Nations, as were all the speakers who referred to President Wilson.

One reference was made to Italy and that by inference, Dr. Anthony Masi, expressing the gratitude of the Czech-Slavic to the United States, and President Wilson, in particular, said his people had fought through the generations for the liberty and justice enunciated by President Wilson.

Defines Americanism.

"Americanism" said Dr. Judson, "is Americanism, in the blood in your veins or the place where you were born. Americanism is the spirit, the heart and the soul that you have."

"We face the greatest problem ever confronting the world—the problem of peace and reconstruction." With this he started with one common language in our schools and colleges—the English language.

"One language means a great deal in the unity of a nation, and unity we must and will have."

Dr. Judson then recounted how Dr. Thomas Masaryk, now president of the new Czech-Slavic republic, was his colleague for years and was a prominent member of the League of Nations in Chicago.

He said that Dr. Masaryk had set the high ideal of liberty for the oppressed peoples which would make every Czech-Slav in the United States a better American.

In discussing the League of Nations Dr. Judson said there were two nations of the League—the sound and the spurious notion.

He said, "No foreign power could oppress a free people on this hemisphere. The spurious notion, he explained, was that the United States could lord it over the small and weak nations of the western hemisphere.

Warms of Evil.

"Evil forces," he said, "are trying to overwhelm the civilization of the world. We cannot allow these forces to touch the United States or the world is doomed."

Dr. Judson was understood to refer to the Bolsheviks.

Sept. Charles E. Chadsey of the Chicago public schools spoke in a similar vein.

MASTER BAKERS UNITE AS STRIKE OF UNION LOOMS

Finish Fight Predicted on the Demand to End Night Work.

Some time ago the union bakers of Chicago expressed the belief that the "staff of life" would be better for a little "resting"—say from 11 p. m.—before being delivered to the housewife. In other words, they demanded that night work—between the hours of 11 p. m. and 8 a. m.—be abolished. They also demanded an increase of $2 a week in wages.

The master bakers—who employ the same men—announced willingness to grant the increase in wages, but turned down the demand for the discontinuance of night work, explaining the housewives insisted on having fresh bread.

Union Has War Chest.

The union men filled a war chest and announced they would appeal to the government. They also issued an ultimatum to the employers—"end night work between the hours specified or we strike."

The contract between the union bakers and the employers expires next Saturday. Neither side has yielded.

The union bakers' strike is due to take place on Saturday.

Yesterday the master bakers announced they would "fight to the finish."

They have formed an organization which includes, they say, seventeen of the big baking firms and 850 small employing bakers under the name of "Employing Bakers' Interests of Chicago." They have retained Frederick W. Job, attorney, as their representative.

Inventories of "Munitions."

Bakers inventories of the munitions in the strike.

The master bakers—charges union bakers have appeared in the shops wearing caps with the word "Bolshevik" on them; that the bakers' union is a Bolshevik; that the housewives will not tolerate any attempt to deprive them of fresh bread with the announcement they have agreed to "fight it out" and stand or fall together; that they are the ones proposed by the union men to work their machinery.

The union men—These declarations can make Chicago—or most of it—go without bread: the statement most of the small bakers are with the employers is not true; they are willing to grant our demands, but are afraid of going to war.

With the backing of the American Federation of Labor, we are in the right in our demand for the discontinuance of night work.

LEGISLATORS IN CHICAGO TODAY TO HEAR NEEDS

Committees Meet at 10 A. M. in Council Room.

BY E. O. PHILLIPS.

Springfield, Ill., April 24.—[Special.]—Chicago will have its opportunity tomorrow to show what the city wants on the pending "night ward" bill and the local finance bills, including particularly the bill that authorizes Chicago to construct a great convention auditorium, popularly known as the "town hall" bill.

Members of the house committees on municipalities and elections, headed by Representatives Fieldstadt and Dahlberg, the legislative chairmen, went to Chicago this afternoon. The hearing will start at 10 o'clock in the city council chamber. Representatives of the civic and political organizations have been invited to be present, but the announcement made today is that the hearing is to be thrown open to all Chicago citizens who wish to discuss pending legislation that affects the reconstruction period.

Revenue Bills Next Week.

The bills that have to do with revenue matters will not be handled tomorrow. By joint resolution adopted today, practically all of next week will be given over to the different revenue measures, and practically nothing else is to be considered by the general assembly.

The Buck water pollution censorship bill was taken up this morning in the house and referred to the house judiciary committee. The Havill house bill, somewhat like the Buck bill, is to have a public hearing in Chicago on Saturday, May 3, as announced today. The bill is in the hands of a subcommittee.

The three Essington bills, that complete the circuit of necessary legislation for building the deep waterway, were passed by the senate this morning. The Essington measures provide for the issuance of the $20,000,000 bond issue for the appropriation from the treasury of the $20,000,000 needed for the digging over by the government of some parts of the Illinois and Michigan canals as necessary for the undertaking. The entire waterway project now rests with the house of representatives.

Lincoln Park Bill Passes.

The senate passed the Mueller bill for a new Lincoln park bond issue of $1,000,000, already through the house. The bill authorizes the city to extend the park north of Montrose avenue and to prepare for the eventual opening of Ogden avenue into the park.

Senator Austin's bill, prohibiting high school fraternities, was among the senate bills passed.

ILLINOISANS ARE DECORATED BY KING OF GREECE

King Alexander of Greece has awarded a decoration to Dr. Samuel J. Walker of Lake Forest and Attorney Horace S. Oakley of 1210 Astor street, Chicago, for services rendered as members of a unit of the special American Red Cross mission to that country last October.

Notice of the award was carried in dispatches yesterday from Washington. Both men ranked as adjutants in the mission. The award was announced by Prof. Edwin R. Gage of Princeton university, head of the mission, had received the cross of the Royal Order of the Redeemer, the most important knight-hood conferred in Greece.

Other members of the mission decorated were Carl E. Black of Jacksonville, Ill., and Cyril G. Hopkins of the University of Illinois.

ONE HOT RALLY IN FRIGID AIR MEANS VICTORY FOR CUBS, 5-1

MITCH MEN MAKE WINNING START; 8,000 SEE GAME

Cold Not Minded by Fans When Pirates Fall in Defeat.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.
It was awful cold, but the Cubs staged a delayed opening at the north side park yesterday afternoon before about 8,000 muffed and furred fans and set on such a hot rally in the second inning that they knocked the Pittsburgh Pirates flat 5 to 1, and made everybody forget the Christmas breeze of the lake.

It was so cold that there was danger to passing American beauties to President and Manager Fred Mitchell of the north side warriors and to Grover Alexander, who just got back from the River River in time to pitch the first ball. The roses were rushed to the plate for presentation and rushed back to the steam heat in the office when material damage.

Great Demonstrates Interest.

Just why something like 8,000 citizens could go out, could not be explained by the experts of the game, but the general opinion was that they were there because America's citizens were for something in the way of action after the long spell of war. All players and spectators sat on their seats in subdued tones to keep them warm, and the game was a ballyhoo from the start.

It was no more than two innings before the fans of Chicago that day in for an exciting time this summer in baseball because Mitchell's boys simply lambasted the Pirates in the second in such clear-cut and exciting style that everybody was every where—no one's personal race to the top. The was the only inning they did any business, but they made such a stamp that three more runs than necessary were counted.

Mitch Cracks It Open.

It was Mr. Muscle Merkle, sturdy as he was, who started the fuss, and it did in such a rampant sort of way that all the other boys simply folded and sat. With one out, Mr. Merkle went to bat and called for a time-out.

He then cracked curves for a minute on the left foul line that would break binds and feet off any man who might have been in the way.

He got two bases on the blow when nothing but a wall could stop him. Pick followed him with a hit, and the crowd was off again.

Cars were parked all around the grounds, flags were flying, the band was playing, and crowds of people were scrambling for seats.

Like the Country Fair.

"Just like the country fair, ain't it, Fleete?"

"I'll say so, grandma—want some popcorn?" chimed the happy Fleete.

"Bother my teeth, Fleete."

They settled themselves as the game went on.

"What a lot of people, Fleete. So many sailors, too. Wouldn't you think them little caps were cold?"

"Yes, but grandma, look at the players."

"O, yes, why are there so many colored uniforms?"

"The white ones are Chicago and the gray old Pittsburg," hastily hissed Fleete.

Grandma Must Know Pittsburgh.

"My, my, I suppose we were started out white in Pittsburgh." Which was all he said.

"Atta boy—whoopee," he yelled.

"Is that man talking deaf and dumb? Fleete? That one squatting down on his knees?"

"Which, where?" Fleete tried to be a polite host, that's the catcher making signs to the—"

The crowd rose in a body and the noise drowned grandma's conversation.

Anyhow, Fleete was on his feet again.

"What's all the racket about now, Fleete—I didn't see anything except that man running."

"A two-bagger—grandma, did you see that ball go 'way up in the air?"

Strong? Why, Muscle Merkle.

"Yes, yes, Fleete, he must be a strong man."

HERE'S THE FIRST!

Notes

Phil Douglas is likely to tackle them today with Briskein, Mayer on the slab for the Pirates.

The Cubs Claws club was on hand, but it was too cold for any rooting demonstrations.

Before the game Jim Vaughn and Grover Alexander signed their contracts for the season. A pretty good pair of hurlers, Jim and Aleck.

Percy Skillen, just back from France, was on hand, trying to sell some shirts to the big leaguers. Artie Hoffman was there trying to sell 'em some shirts.

Vice President Bill Veek came out in a new spring top coat, but spent most of the afternoon by the radiator in the office. The old winter benny with the fur collar was the thing.

In the program a prominent north side advertised itself as the coolest place in town. A lot of the fans went over there after the game to get cooled off or something.

As a result, the police were asked to state the grammatical error in the fence sign advising all to get a healthy hobby. She decided hobby should be spelled with a "u" instead of an "o."

Fred Merkle's two hits were terrific drives over third base. One went to the wall for two sacks, but Southworth managed to get in front of the other and hold it to a single.

A glance at the cast will convince you that the gang's all there—in German, ya! But you should schutze see what happens to the gang!

You know producers often labor under the same failing that affects many an excellent story—namely, they're winded. They take a good text and present it with telling effect up to a certain point; then because they're doing so well they decide to hang on to the good thing—which, of course, is the one course they should not have pursued.

In the case of "Love and the Law" there is just this one fault to be found: it's padded. Otherwise it is quite a clever picture with a punch.

"The Troop Train," a story which appeared in a weekly magazine, was chosen as basis for the production. One Karl Casterline, an ex-cop, is the hero. He is "ex" by reason of discharge having been at the behest of a dyspeptic old lady, either who was covered with boyish playing marbles, it seems a habit with Officer Casterline to play marbles, but there they were on the walk and there was a brother officer handy (he escaped) and it was spring and the hurdy gurdies were playing—and so Officer Casterline became a kid for a brief moment and the old sargeant, the righteous man he is, had to bring him home.

Officer Casterline didn't know anything but being a policeman. He'd been practically born on the force and had a splendid record behind him. He thought of going to war, but his draft number was way down. So, determined to do something for his country, he enlisted on a farm. His boss' name was Bauer. The name of the village near the farm was Breslau, and in the village there was an American name for an American boy.

The ex-cop's heroic action in breaking up a German plot and saving a troop train; his sentence to death and "the punch," regarding which I leave you in suspense, make mighty interesting picture data. Mr. White acts like a real human being and looks like William Farnum.

The little lead, Miss Josephine Hill, is a stranger to me and I think her rather nice. She overacts, sometimes, but in the main is pleasing. The supporting cast is most excellently adapted to the various needs of rôle.

If they'd only made it a little shorter and more snappy!

Stories

Do you know a real love story—one that is true? Write the fiction to the Tribune that is wanted. No attention will be paid to "punch" style. "The Tribune" will pay $10 for each story published. No manuscripts returned. Address: Doris Blake, The Tribune, Chicago.

Hi First Wife.

The other evening at a friend's home, the subject of palm reading came up. The majority discredited what a few claimed to be a science. Then one of our neighbors who had been only a listener, spoke up.

"I don't know," she said. "If there is anything to fortune telling or not, but here is a story that may interest you."

Last summer when I was visiting in a neighboring state I became well acquainted with a judge's family living next door to my cousin. One evening I remarked to my cousin how much younger Mrs. L. looked than did her husband, the judge.

"You see," my cousin answered, "she's his third wife. But do you know, not a soul, even his own wife, his second wife, just has her hair. The story came to light like this:

"About four weeks ago Mrs. L. and three of us neighbors were in a mood for something out of the ordinary, and so we drove out to a camp of gypsies located just outside of the city to have our fortunes told. The old teller, Mrs. M., a gypsy, kept insisting that Mrs. L. was a third wife. We all laughed, thinking it was quite a joke.

That evening I was at their home for dinner. At the table his wife told him of her experience, jocosely informing him that she was his third wife. The judge leaned back in his chair and looking at his grown children and then at his wife, said, "You are, my dear."

Then he told a story that has set the city agog with gossip.

Walter Farnum was 24, a year after he had established himself in law practice here, his health broke from the strain, he said, of nothing to do. He went to Kentucky. There he took a mountain school. In his school was a bright girl of 17, whose entire physicality of life, whose whole sensations and physical beauty won him completely.

He was in need of the companionship she could give. So he married her. But he didn't write home of it.

The young bride soon began to take her health with her husband. But he kept postponing his return. He couldn't bear to have her sensitive nature hurt by bringing her in contact with people who, because brought up differently, wouldn't understand and appreciate her. Furthermore, he was really happy, and so why risk a chance?

A year soon slipped by. They anticipated the coming of a child. But, both mother and child died, due to lack of proper medical care. Since the place held nothing but sadness for him now, he went back to his home and practice. Ten years later he married again. Three children were born. When they were all grown, he died. After three years he married her cousin.

When the story was ended no one referred to the subject of fortune telling. Like me, they were perhaps lost in the pathos of the story. Why had the judge kept this to himself all these years? Why, when he did tell it, did he make no effort to keep it within his own family?

ROBERT GORDON

He's on the Board for Congratulations, Having Just Been Married to Alma Francis, the Musical Comedy Favorite. Mr. Gordon, Who Has Recently Returned from Service in the United States Army, Is That Nice Boy Who Played with Sylvia Breamer in "Missing" and Was Huck Finn to Jack Pickford's Tom Sawyer.

Tales of tomato troubles are wafted hitherward now and then. Sometimes the idea conveyed is that there are few if any uses for canned tomatoes save what we call mock bisque soup. Last year's pack of tomatoes must be used now or soon.

But first before discussing this I want to mention the fact that few women have been so fortunate as to make a good advantage of using good strong rubbers of standard thickness in canning that you can open the can so easily. All that is necessary is to pull out the robber. If it breaks in one place try it in another. If only a narrow bit sets out below the top use pinches. It does not matter whether you have a screw top or a glass top this is the easiest of all ways to open a can.

Sick and Lonesome.

"I am a young girl at a sanitarium. I have been here for a year and am still lonesome. Would like to know if any of your kind readers have books or magazines they would send me.

"FANNY K."

This appeal comes from the tuberculosis hospital. I will be happy to send the lonely girl's address.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

F. B. T. IT IS IMPOSSIBLE to worry and do anything rhythmic at one and the same time. So advises a nerve specialist. When you feel an attack play a tune on your piano or put on a talking machine record and do a few turns in a dancing rhythm. He even advises doing one's housework with a rhythmic motion which may and may not strike the housewife's fancy. But what are a few bits of broken china if dishwashing, for instance, is done to a rhythmic lilt?

MACH UPSET?

at the Real Cause—Take Edwards' Olive Tablets

what thousands of stomach tonics are doing now. Instead of "upsetting" the stomach, they are attacking the cause of the ailment—clogged and diseased intestines. Edwards' Olive Tablets are the only soothings, healing way, their natural functions. Indigestion and stomach trouble you can't stand in a year. Tongue coated, appetite gone, don't care feeling, no ambition, no energy, no strength, no digestion, you should take Olive Tablets, substitute for calomel.

Edwards' Olive Tablets are a vegetable compound mixed with oil. You will know them by olive color, and by the taste of grating, crisp or painless.

one or two bedtimes for quick cure can be taken, you like 25 and 25c per box. All suggested.

THE WEEKLY

WEDDING, ENGAGEMENT

Mrs. Henrietta E. Robinson, daughter of Prof. George L. Robinson of the McCormick Theological seminary, will be married at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Fuller Avenue Presbyterian church to the Rev. John R. McMahon. The ceremony will be performed by the pastor of the bride, assisted by the Rev. Charles E. Wishart of the Second Presbyterian church. A reception at the bride's residence will follow the service.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Madeline du Colinet of the Hartlepool Mansions, London, England, to Capt. Alford E. Budde, medical corps, United States army, of Chicago. Capt. Budde went to France last July and was originally assigned to hospital No. 14 and was with that organization until it returned to America. At present he is taking a post-graduate course in surgery in London. The wedding will take place in a few weeks.

SOCIETY and Entertainments

Arts Club Members to See Stage Stars

in Red Cross Film

The members of the Arts club are going to have a very interesting time Monday afternoon, when the first public showing of a film taken at the Rosemary pageant, which was given at the open air theater at the Arlington, L. I., Oct. 4 and 5, 1917, for the benefit of the Red Cross will take place. Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, who was one of the directors of the pageant, brought the film from New York recently. In the cast are E. H. Sothern, Julia Marlowe, Ethel Barrymore, William Farnum, Frances Starr, Elsie Ferguson, Marjorie Rambeau, Ernest Glendinning, and other stars.

Tonight and tomorrow night at the Arts club two scenes, Spanish plays by John George Underhill will be presented by the drama committee. A Spanish supper will be served after the performances.

The annual spring sale of the Woman's exchange of Chicago will be held today in the crystal ballroom of the Blackstone. Daily summer frocks and hats, boudoir robes, lamps, children's clothes, and exquisite handwork, all of which has been executed by hand-capped persons, will be offered for sale by the society women who are directors of the exchange.

The executive committee of the White Elephant Rummage shop, which is conducted for the benefit of the Children's Memorial hospital, gave a luncheon yesterday at the Casino for 125 women who have been faithful workers at the shop since it was opened last fall. The shop has been so successful that it was decided to keep it open this summer. The hostesses yesterday were Mrs. Martha Wilson, chairwoman, and

HIGHEST PRICES OF SEASON MADE BEFORE BREAK

Values Drop Near Close as Rapidly as They Advanced.

BY CHARLES D. MICHAELS.

After making the highest prices of the season for grain and provisions with shorts and eleventh hour buys, the big break did not get well under way until the last three quarters of an hour.

Prices slipped off as rapidly as they advanced and the close was at a lower level than the opening. The high on July and 80 on September. Oats were 80¢ lower. Pork closed unchanged for May to 45¢ higher for July. Lard gained 5¢ for May and 5¢ for July, while May short ribs were 5¢ and July 23¢ higher for the day. May corn was 10¢ higher, but markets lost 10¢ each distant future, while 10¢ SC. Louis showing the most strength. Oats were 8¢ lower in the southwest, and 40¢ off in Minneapolis, while Winnipeg lost 10¢. Rye futures in Minneapolis lost 10¢, and barley was 20¢ higher.

Wheat in Rapid Break.

Grain market was excited and fluctuated widely within a range of 40¢ to 50¢. Bullish sentiment was rampant early, with strong commission houses, shorts and the local element on the buying side, heavy profit taking sales were reduced to new high levels of 40¢ to 50¢. The market, however, showed decided weakness when compared with the most distant futures, and the premium over the July narrow materially, being only 4¢ at the last, against 4¢ the previous day.

The highest prices were made around 11:30 a. m. for the May, and 11:35 a. m. for the distant deliveries. Around 12:30 p. m. the market commenced to reflect the effect of the imminent profit taking and selling against offers, and prices started downward. A break to the inside figure was the day followed, with a fairly heavy close, final trades being with May at $1.67, July at $1.65, and September at $1.53.

Reports that the import duty on Canadian wheat had been lifted to this country had a radical effect on sentiment, which had already changed considerably, and the market showed a big bulge earlier in the day. Many of the local element started to unload their lines and found support lacking.

Country offerings were liberal and the action of the May showed that the weight of cash grain is coming to be felt. Over 100,000 bu. were bought. Sales of 50,000 bu. were made to go to store. Receipts of 322 cars, were the largest so far. Sample values 103¢ higher early, but closed with the advance lost.

Sample Market Weakens.

While oats advanced early with corn, gains were small when compared with that grain. There were persistent offerings for the bulge, and when corn weakened early followed, and closed well toward the bottom with May 70¢, July 70¢, and September 68¢.

A feature was the closing of the May-July spread sales being made, as even though the market was again at a minimum for the May. Country offerings in the main were held above the market, but receipts of 155 cars were the largest in some time. Sample values were unchanged to 10 higher, closing early, with shipping sales of 100,000 bu. The six markets had 204 cars, and 12 cars a week ago and 511 cars last year.

Wheat Markets After Lard.

Millers were over rye and early sales showed an advance of 10¢ on spot and 30¢ on futures, but when other grains weakened rye followed and futures closed 5¢ lower. A Minneapolis mill was reported to have tried to secure 500,000 bu. from the food administration, but was refused. Receipts amounted to 15,000 bu. No. 2 sold at $1.80¢ to 1.81¢. Receipts, 13 cars. Millers were 2¢ higher and Minneapolis 1¢ lower. The northwestern markets had 61 cars.

Minneapolis cash handlers rebounded 25,000 bu. to add exporters yesterday to day, and the food administration refused to buy. Exporters were asking for orders here, but made no purchases. Spot prices were 20¢ higher, and to arrive 20¢ higher, with sales of 15,000 bu. at $1.20¢ to 1.21¢. Spot values were 4¢ higher, 40 cars. Milwaukee was 4¢ higher, 40 cars. The northwest received 55 cars.

HIGH COST OF LABOR NO BAR TO TRADE GAINS

European Wages and Taxes Aid U. S.
Competition.

In the increased cost of labor most of the heads of large business organizations who give expression to their views find one of the greatest obstacles in the readjustment of manufacturing, operating, and living conditions. Also it seems to be generally agreed that the price of labor will remain high, and this being accepted, its effect on general and export trade is considered from various angles. The importance of economies in the production of this country with foreign producers and manufacturers will find, it is believed, a counterpart in high wages abroad and in the trade revival which is expected to follow peace. The United States will enjoy an improved position.

The high wages paid in this country, or where, tariff laws have been imposed by manufacturers, promise to a solution in the new scale of wages which foreign manufacturers will be obliged to pay. The advance in wages is peculiar to the United States.

Reasons for Increase.

In an article in the West at Work Feature, J. Wade, president of the Mercantile and Manufacturing Company of St. Louis, presents a few of the reasons which finds are now more than ever true. The following is a summary of his article:

The shutting off of immigration, decreasing our labor supply for five years to the extent of at least 5,000,000 during that period.

The move of 2,000,000 men yet to be demobilized.

The high cost of living occasioned by the war.

The natural awakening of the minds of employers that the laborer is worthy of his hire and must be paid more than mere bread and meat money if we wish to continue to be the greatest nation on earth.

Loss of 8,000,000 Men.

Mr. Wade's presentation suggests a reduction in the productive industry. It was the experience of the large employers that the total of employees who volunteered and were called to arms by the draft, reached more than 8 per cent of the male working force.

Mr. Wade's immigration figures are approximately correct, but the labor market has been heavily labor market has been drawn upon.

Mr. Wade quotes export statistics to show that under former conditions of high wages in this country and lower wages abroad we were able to export in 1918, 5,000,000 all kinds of manufactured competition with the world.

He says:

"Now what we ought to ask ourselves, as sensible men, is whether our situation today by comparison with that of 1918 is better or worse as far as holding our own in the foreign markets is concerned."

European Wages Higher.

Our view follows:

"Natural law will prevent European wages from being lower than ours. The cost of everything workmen consume has been raised by taxation. Wages must roughly correspond to this increased cost.

It is a law of competition that the difficulties which arise from increased cost are relative and absolute, and the only way to meet them is to assist in paying interest on the colonial debt of European nations.

"Since 1913 the man power of our principal competitors, Great Britain, Germany, and France, has been much reduced by the killing off in war of strong and effective men. The effect of the war losses on the man power of the United States has been, from an industrial point of view, almost negligible."

Europe's Taxes Higher.

The other factor of importance in this matter of wages is the increase in taxation. The increase in taxation relatively to the taxable wealth has been much greater in England, France, and Germany than it has in the United States. This reduction of the labor force of Europe and the increase in the burden of taxation will inevitably tend to raise the level of European wages to the level of wages in the United States.

In 1918 European man power was greater than it is today, while European taxation and other manufacturing costs were, compared with the United States, lower than they are now.

Thus, in the case of the United States, the cost of labor is higher than it was in 1918, but the cost of living is lower.

What is the result of all this?

It is that the man power of the United States is now more than twice as large as that of Europe.
